THE RANCH

The Schuerman Ranch is a fourth-generation 1,300 acre cattle ranch. In 1980, portions of the ranch were converted to accommodate hunting on the ranch.

Hunting methods used on the ranch include stalking, stand hunting, and drives. Hunts are tailored to your individual preference and physical ability. Most of the ranch is accessible by roads.

To maintain a quality hunt, only a limited number of hunters are allowed during any given hunting season.

The hunting guides are family members who are familiar with the habitats of the wildlife, and will be able to assist you in harvesting your game. Guides and skinning are included in the hunting fees.

Whitetail deer and elk may be hunted only during established hunting seasons and with a Washington state hunting license and tag.

Refer to Washington State Department of Fish and Wildlife (wdf.wa.gov) for more information. The ranch is located in Game Management Unit 117 at 49 degrees north.

A Washington state hunting license is not required for hunting exotics, and they can be hunted year-round.
